

Methodist University
Physician Assistant Program
Class of 2009

White coats are a rite of passage for aspiring medical professionals. Methodist University Physician Assistant Program students receive their coats at a ceremony at the end of their first year of study, where they take an oath affirming their commitment to the highest standards of ethics and patient care.

On August 22, 2008, the Class of 2009 will take its first steps on this journey, by celebrating its White Coat Ceremony.

Members of the Class of 2009 will be the first to receive sponsorship of their white coats from the Physician Assistant Program. Help support our next generation of Physician Assistants by partnering with us in:
