LaToya René Robertson is a talented composer and educator. Robertson has survived the struggles of being raised in an impoverished and drug-infested neighborhood to become an accredited television and music composer, songwriter, property owner, author, world traveler, and Ph.D. candidate.

LaToya has developed first-year programs at her alma mater, Methodist University; created music for television shows on stations such as NBC, MTV, BET, Entertainment, TBS, and TRUTV; toured internationally; spoken at universities; and has recently completed her first book. She hopes to be an example proving it's not how you start, but your motivation to succeed.
